Carver High School

Hi folks! Here are the reporters to give you the latest news in and around Carver.

There has been an overwhelming zeal in activities, programs, and selling at school for the benefit of the Popularity Contest. Time will tell which class will be the winner.

The Seniors are sponsoring a dance Friday night December 7, at Camp Winonah. The public is cordially invited. There will be some of the latest records, too. Free refreshments, also.

The Seniors are expecting their rings soon, and are looking forward to that great day, Graduation Day. They wish to leave this thought of encouragement to the underclassmen: It is a well-known fact that many seniors of past years spent their first three years having a good time, and their fourth and fifth years wishing they had studied. Of course, the freshmen do not include themselves in this category now because you have started out to get on honor roll. A word to the wise is sufficient. Keep your grades up at all times. Some few students have the idea that good grades and good times just can't be found at the same place, but we are sure this is not true. Carver is a wonderful school, and will continue to be for students who can maintain a scholastic standing and take part in extra-curricular activities at the same time. So come on, underclassmen, and let "tops" be your goal.

Three original radio skits, written by members of the senior class will be presented in assembly Friday, December 7.

The S. C. A. club is to hold canteen parties this year. The council requests the presence of many more students in order to keep up the objectives.

We wonder why Virginia Hubbard tries to be so smart or wants to be more attractive.

We think Genevieve Culpepper is talking to one of the senior boys, Lawrence Turner.

Maxine Ferguson is very lonely since Marshall Megginson returned to the Army.

The Juniors held their class meeting on Monday, December 3, and discussed the giving of Christmas gifts, along with, we understand, most interesting activities. We'll see in the spring, when they have to entertain the Seniors.

In French, the Juniors are studying and learning Christmas expressions for the Yuletide holidays. In English, they are studying diagraming. They report both are difficult but interesting.

Individual class pictures with caps and gowns are were taken of the Seniors on Tuesday, by Mr. Skokel from Norfolk, Va. My, they looked nice, and very intelligent, too. We wonder why the photographer spent so much time with McKinley Tanner?

The Tobacco Rally ends on next Monday. Have some good wrappers for sale! Bring as much as you can, for proceeds go for our new school. Ask your neighbors for some if you don't grow it. Everyone can participate.

We hear the Junior girls are planning a basketball game on this coming Friday.

The boys, we hear, are planning to organize a glee club.Should be something for the listening ear, shouldn't we say!

The birdie told us some of the autobiographies passed in by the ninth graders are very good. There are a few "scribes" we hear.

The Tenth graders were studying ants and other insects in science class. They have good drawings, too.

The talent show given by this class revealed to us such artists as Charles Walker, who sketched several profiles, as well as drawing "Mickey Mouse." Too, such square dancers as:Arleatha Flowers, Claude Lambert, Irene Lambert, Gerald Hicks and Serenia Christian.

This closes our news for the week, and our thought:

"The most completely lost of all days is that on which one has not laughed."

Sheriff Claims Savings to Co. For His Office

A statement on operation of his office was issued today by Appomattox County Sheriff David T. Robertson. The statement follows:

"Sheriff David T. Robertson reported to the county board of supervisors Wednesday that the efforts of his office have saved county taxpayers $4,762.96 in the past 18 months and that his office has operated at a profit to the county since he has been in office. This was accomplished in spite of an increase in his work of 83 per cent. He stated that the county is now saving approximately $1,735.48 each 18 months due directly to his administration.

"The expenses the sheriff eliminated in the 18 months were: $180.00 for jail help; $105.60 water cost to jail; $1,800.00 janitor service;$350.-00 for painting, firing the furnace and general jail upkeep. The biggest saving to the taxpayers is the janitor service. This is being accomplished by the cooperation of the county employees and the citizens of the county by their showing of respect to county property and helping to keep it clean.

"The sheriff reports due to his efforts he has finally got the State of Virginia to reimburse the County of Appomattox a total of $1,797.64 for fuel cost since July, 1948 and has, also, successfully represented his claim to the State to the extent that the State will reimburse the county 50 per cent of all fuel cost in the future. This amount will be reduced to 30 per cent after installation of certain fuel saving devices, but the money saved will amount to the same. Sheriff Robertson says the fuel cost alone will save the county approximately $600.00 a year.

"Other reimbursed the sheriff got for the county were: $95.00 for sale of recovered stolen goods; $300.00 for fines and $134.72 in fees over and above the amount collected by the former sheriff's tenure of office for 18 months. The total of these reimbursements and savings amount to $4,762.96 in 18 months.

"Sheriff Robertson has collected a total of $1,102.81 in fees in 18 months against $698.64 for the 18 months before he took office. There has been an increase in the number of prisoners and prisoner days. For 18 months prior to his appointment to office there were $7,055.23 in fines imposed in the Trial Justice Court, and for the 18 months since he took office the total in the Trial Justice Court was $9,850.06, an increase of $2,794.83.

"Sheriff Robertson also stated that the criminal cases, not including traffic cases, such as speeding, reckless driving, etc., have increased 83 per cent over the past 18 months."

Dr. Babcock's Latest Book Already A Hit

(From The State, Columbia, S. C.)

BABCOCK'S NEW BOOK IS A HIT

Although off the press only three weeks, "Tales of Quails and Such," a collection of outdoor stories by Dr. Havilah Babcock, head of the University of South Carolina English Department, is already going into its third edition. Praised by the Book-of-the-Month club magazine, the bulletin of the Outdoors Writers Association of America and by critics generally, it is fast coming to be regarded as a literary classic.

"Tales of Quails" is being read throughout the country, not only by people who love the outoors, but by countless others who, as one New York critic put it, "just like to read good writing wherever they find it." Another reviewer said of the book: "It is a capitvating volume written by a distinguished and whimsical stylist who enriches American literature whenever he quits teaching and fishing and hunting long enough to write."

Readers pronounce it a worthy sequel to "My Health Is Better In November," a similar collection by the same author four years ago, but still selling and going into extra editions. "My Health" is the only complete outdoor book in America which had the distinction of being printed in Braille by the Library of Congress. Some of its stories have been translated into 11 foreign languages.

In the meanwhile, Doctor Babcock continues to wear the longest cigarette ash and the floppiest hat on the campus, and to fuss with his bifocals whenever he misses birds. When a group of friends asked recently whether he would be interested in becoming president of a certain educational institution, he is reported to have said: "No thanks, I'd rather have a mess of bream."

(Published in New York, "Tales of Quails" is on sale at all bookstores).

(Note: Dr. Bacock, a native of Appomattox, is well known to Times-Virginian readers. He spends summers and holidays here).

PTA Christmas

The annual Christmas program of the Appomattox Parent - Teacher Association will be held in the high school auditorium on Wednesday, December 19, at 7:45. This will be the Christmas pageant presented annually by Mrs. Wiley Morris and Miss Harriett Holley's Glee Club.

The P.-T. A. reports that distressingly few parents are taking advantage of the opportunity to have their children's teeth taken care of at the dental clinic, and to have the fluoride treatment given.

The sodium fluoride treatment consists of a thorough cleaning and three additional washes of 2 per cent sodium fluoride to help prevent tooth decay. The customary cost of this treatment is from $8.00 to $15.00. It is offered at the dental clinic for only $1.50.

It is understood that Miss Charmain Soulier, hygienist at the clinic, has only 100 pupils for the treatment, and she could have completed 120 treatments before the Christmas holidays. Unless 120 more sign up before December 20, she will not return after the holidays and there will be no further fluoride treatments at this time.

The sponsors of the clinic are disappointment at this lack of response from the parents. Elsewhere the experience has been that when the scheduled time to end a clinic arrived, from 75 to 100 patients had paid up and their money had to be refunded for lack of time. Here the experience has been exactly the opposite: inspection has shown an alarming need for dental work, but parents are just not having the work done and the clinic opportunity is not being used. The sponsors hope that this situation may yet be reversed and that the parents will hurry to take advantage of something the community has long needed.

Sun-cured sales for the two weeks totaled 173,380 pounds, with a $34.-76 average, and $60,318.06 received by the growers.

The second week's volume was off from that of the opening week but improved demand pushed the price average for the second week up to $39.34.

The quality of the offerings was considered better during the second week's sales.

Throughout the Virginia dark-fired belt, sales for the first two weeks totaled 2,981,270 pounds and the average price per hundred pounds was $38.49.

Football Team Banquet Set For Tonight

A full attendance of members of the Appomattox Lions Club is expected tonight, when the club has its annual football banquet. Coach Gordon Bragg and thirty members of the Appomattox High School football squard will be special guests of the club. The banquet is scheduled for 6:45 tonight at the school cafeteria, and will be served by the local P.-T. A. It is understood that, thanks to Charles Thomas Moses, a turkey dinner will be served.

With the invited guests, some 85 are expected at the affair.

Congressman Watkins M. Abbitt, representatives of several colleges, and others will appear on the program. Coach Bragg will introduce the members of his team which went through a difficult schedule with only one loss, and has been generously acclaimed as the best football team in the history of Appomattox High School. Several surprise features are planned by the program committee.

The high school cheerleaders will assist in serving the banquet.

PMA ELECTION RETURNS

Results of the PMA committeemen elections held last Friday and Saturday, in which 552 farmers participated, were announced this week by the local PMA office.

Heading the list of new PMA office holders is John T. Hunter, Southside District, elected as chairman of the Appomattox County PMA County Committee for he coming year. Mr. Hunter succeeds E. E. Gowin, who has served local farmers on the PMA County Committee since 1948.

Also chosen on the PMA County Committee were: J. P. Alvis, Jr., vice-chairman, of Stonewall District, and E. M. Sears, Regular Member, of Clover Hill District.

Commenting on the PMA programs for 1952, Mr. Hunter had this to say: "The job of PMA committeemen and all farmers in the months ahead will be to produce the food and fiber needed for our ever increasing population at home, for armed forces, and for our friendly nations abroad. We must think in terms of peak production—yet, we cannot think only in terms of more acres and higher yields. We must think in terms of a redoubled effort in conservation to offset heavy cropping. For this reason we must more than ever pin-point our Agricutural Conservation Program to the actual needs of the individual farm.

"Grassland farming is the keynote of agriculture in Virginia today. We need all the good pasture we can develop, but we also need to maintain our grain supplies to bolster the production of livestock products. We intend to continue to emphasize Commodity Credit Corporation grain loans offered throut PMA to encourage farmers to produce grain supplies with the assurance of a minimum price."

The local PMA office also released the names of the community committeemen elected in each of the county's three communities. These are listed in order as chairman, vice-chairman and regular member.

Cloverhill Community:
R. K. Martin, chairman
E. M. Webb, vice-chairman
John W. Hix, regular member.
Southside Community:
J. P. Harvey, chairman
F. O. Jones, vice-chairman
J. O. Robertson, regular member.
Stonewall Community:
C. Roland Smith, chairman
Aubrey Moore, vice-chairman
Beverly Martin, regular member.
